But by far the youngest small business owner at the event was Shailynn Taylor of Sun-Kissed Creations.

She makes jewelry using Swarovski crystals and began the business when she was in Grade 8.

"I made a ring myself and I wore it to school on my first day of Grade 8 and all the teachers asked if I was selling them so I decided to make enough to sell to teachers and I got so many people asking about them I decided to make a business," she said.

With the money Taylor has made so far, she has bought a flight to Hawaii for Christmas.

"That was the deal — if I could make enough for a flight to Hawaii, we would all go for Christmas," she said.
